

ART AND WIGGLES AT THE RUSSELL THURSDAY PARTY

Seita Delva Waltzes With the Artist's Snake and Likes
It, Too.

"THIS IS VERY WARM."
Thus Commented Dr. Howard,
Who Has Spent 17 Years in Hottest India.

Princess Seita Delva, the wife of an Indian prince or gawker or rajah, or something like that, has wiggled her way to New York and to America. And she did it in true impressionistic style, in which there was much art in contentment movements. It was indeed most fitting that the Princess should do her wiggling at Edmund Russell's Thursday afternoon party, for it was there that she was introduced to New York, and since her arrival in the artistic society circle in which she has moved, or wiggled, she certainly has had them doing some talking.

In honor of the Princess's departure Artist Russell made yesterday afternoon an Indian day, and it was a rather strange coincidence that on this day Dr. Granby Howard, aged eighty-three and large of frame and carrying his years well, and also looking like a picture of James G. Blaine, should drop in on this artistic set. For Dr. Howard spent seventeen years in India and Artist Russell chirped:

"He is a truly wonderful man. Just think of it, he was in the awful Indian Mutiny in 1857."

"Terrible!" echoed all who heard the story of the Doctor's history in India. And Dr. Howard watched Princess Seita Delva do her dancing in her bare feet and his eyes watered with tears.

"HOT STUFF" IS THE DOCTOR'S COMMENT.

"Oh, for the days in India!" he said. "This brings back the days when dancing maidens were before us at all times. And oh," most enthusiastically, "this is warm art."

Dr. Howard is now stationed in Ottawa, Canada, and he said Princess Seita Delva's dancing would certainly melt the snow in that frozen-up city.

The Princess yesterday wore about her lower half a gorgeous piece of cloth with gold trimmings that looked like the table cloth a magician uses for his tricks, but it was divided at the sides, and when she wiggled she revealed—well, the Princess's skin is dark.

It truly was some Indian afternoon, for Artist Russell had his snake there, and the Princess did her serpentine dance with the monster reptile coiled about her upper body, and she seemed to like its clinging embraces. Prior to that, however, Artist Russell had gone about the studio with it about his neck, while he stroked its skin and the serpent purred and tried to kiss him. As a mark of honor, Mr. Russell permitted the snake to kiss Marquis Harry de Leon and on the forehead, the said Marquis not showing any particular liking for the honor and asking in a trembling voice:

"What does it eat?"

"Principally babies," smiled Mr. Russell, who upon the request of Leonard sought refuge behind Miss Helen Silverstein, who had previously nodded on her ragtime violin a selection she called "Paganini's Thirteenth Sonnet," but which bore a strange resemblance to the air of "Everybody's Doing It."

Miss Silverstein wasn't a bit afraid of the snake, either.

ALL THE ARTISTIC SET DO HONOR TO THE PRINCESS.

It seemed that all of the artistic set was out to do honor to Princess Seita Delva, and they were rewarded by some wonderful dancing, too. Miss Hattie Forsythe, looking as radiant as the sun, as ever, was there and introduced to and her friend Mrs. Hill-Brown. None had to look around to know that Miss Forsythe was entering the room. One could tell it by the sighs and gasps that went up from the breasts of men, and wives, who had not been observing, were heard to ask their husbands why they did it. Husbands didn't explain. And those who were favored with the smile that went with the Watson recognition departed for their homes with a titillating memory. And the beautiful Mrs. P. Elliott Thacker, after having been missed from the circle for several weeks, came and was just as much in evidence as ever, and wheeled promises from all men to attend Baroness Von Gyro's party, "because I'm going and want to have a good time."

Mrs. Allen-Sommers, wearing a lace something over something and a hat of red, was there with two millionaires in the shape of Albert Pierce, "who comes from one of the oldest of the old families," and "and a marble bungalow at Newport and a palace in the Berkshires." Or course Mrs. Sommers was busy, and her secret was that she was with them.

The Baroness Von Gyro was on hand and hustling for her next party for the pleasure of the "idle rich."

When Princess Seita Deiva Writhed Her Last Wriggle at Edmund Russell's

was a costly one for the officers. However, we will watch the millionaires this time.

Of course the Princess was not the only attraction—aside from the visitors—for Artist Russell can always be relied upon to find a prodigy. This one was Alphonse Bohrer, who presided at the piano and allowed his fingers to amble over the keys in a composition of his own, entitled "Niagara Falls," and which some one said suggested an over-flow. The playing did not disturb Dr. W. T. Huger, who slept with his head propped up against the piano. After Mr. Bohrer—Mr. Russell did not announce him as having a title—had finished the Princess came forth and—well, she certainly did wiggle a lot and then some more. Of course it was art in dancing and therefore much that might be said against such things being allowed in public must be left unsaid. The Princess sails for India next Monday.

COMPTROLLER'S MEN SAY KOENIG HAS THREATENED.

Prendergast Says They Were Told to Line Up for Taft—County Chairman Denies It.

Republican organization men employed in the Finance Department who are inclined to favor Col. Roosevelt's presidential aspirations have complained to Comptroller Prendergast that Chairman Koenig of the County Committee and other district leaders of Manhattan have been trying to intimidate them.

"The men, as I understand it," said the Comptroller to-day, "were told by Mr. Koenig that the wisest thing they could do would be to follow him and the Taft forces; that after the March primaries his influence in the Finance Department might either result in their being retained or ousted from the positions they now hold."

"If the reports are true and Mr. Koenig made the remarks credited to him, I want to say for his benefit and the public at large that he will have no more influence than 'Tim' Sullivan in the Finance Department before or after the primaries."

Mr. Koenig said of the charges: "There is no truth in what the Comptroller is reported to have said about me. I am surprised at the statement made by him."

TAKEN ILL LECTURING.

Miss Ethel M. Arnold, sister of Mrs. Humphry Ward, was taken ill yesterday in the Hudson Theatre when delivering a lecture on "The Citizenship of Women." But, though suffering, she refused to leave the stage till she had protested against the outbreak of the militant suffragettes in England. Then she was taken half fainting to her carriage.

"I do not deny that violence may be necessary on the part of men fighting for their rights," said Miss Arnold, "but I don't feel that it is any part of a woman's movement. Though opposed to the militant's methods, I was full of admiration for Mrs. Pankhurst's leadership. Now my faith is shaken. But woman's suffrage is inevitable. Right will prevail."

When women vote it will release them from the tyranny of fashion. Their minds will be filled with larger things."

GROGER HELD UP AT PISTOL POINT, ROBBED IN STORE

Heller Had Just Counted Up
Day's Cash When First Thief Entered.

Samuel Heller had a busy day in his grocery store at No. 1577 Second avenue, and it was late last night that he prepared to go home upstairs. He put all the lights out in the store except one over the cash register, the contents of which, $110, he placed in his inside waistcoat pocket. Then the door of the store opened and a young man entered. Heller went behind the counter.

"I want half a pound of cheese," said the stranger.

Heller opened the icebox and was cutting the cheese, when, hearing a movement behind him, he looked around and found himself looking into the barrel of a revolver.

"Never mind the cheese, I want your money," said the man. A second young man entered the store at this time, and while the first man kept Heller covered the confederate went through the grocer's pockets and found the $110.

"You keep quiet about this or you'll hear from us," said the spokesman, as the two backed away and left the store.

Heller disregarded the warning and ran to the street yelling for the police. No policeman came, however, and he went to the East Eighty-eighth street station where he told the story to Lieut. Conney and Detectives Mahoney and M. O'Mara. He gave them a good description of the hold-up men.

The first man he said was about 5 feet 4 inches in height, weighed 125 pounds and had light complexion and hair. The other was four inches taller and weighed about 135 pounds. He was dark complexioned. Heller said he believed the men belonged to the neighborhood.

SAYS HE MARRIED TWICE.

First Wife Left When She Heard of the Second.

Loretta R. Forsythe, a pretty show girl, died suit in the Supreme Court to-day for a divorce from her husband, James J. Forsythe, an automobile dealer. Mrs. Forsythe, who lives at No. 24 West One Hundred and Sixteenth street, declares that she parted from Forsythe Feb. 21 last, after she had learned that Forsythe had married Carrie Higgins, a telephone operator, eight days previously, without having obtained a divorce from her.

Herman L. Roth, counsel for Mrs. Forsythe No. 1, said his client was married to the automobile dealer about three years ago. They lived very happily together until Mrs. Forsythe discovered quite by chance that Forsythe had married again, and then she left him," said Mr. Roth. The plaintiff names the defendant's second wife as co-respondent in her suit.

Presidential Primary Goes Glimmering in Michigan.

LANSING, Mich., March 15.—Opponents of the Ball Presidential Primary bill in the Senate yesterday, by a vote of 12 to 19, defeated a move to take the bill from the table and secure favorable consideration on the immediate effect clause. This is believed to kill all chances of an April Presidential preference primary in Michigan.

COOPER'S New Discovery

Puts the Stomach in Order

Americans to-day are prone to neglect their stomachs. They eat too fast, work too fast, live too fast, and are generally a "bunch of nerves." Something gives way—generally the stomach—then follow nervous indigestion, kidney or stomach trouble and many other ailments.

Stomach disorders manifest themselves in numerous ways, but the most common complaint is a tired, droopy, half-sick condition. The victims lack energy and ambition, have irregular appetites and feel languid and tired all the time. Cooper's New Discovery will tone up a run-down, overworked stomach, regulate the digestive organs, strengthen the nervous system and restore the stomach to a healthy condition.

Makes Digestion Easy

Many people suffer great pain from indigestion. Food lays heavily upon the stomach, where it ferments, forms gases and causes great distress. When the digestive organs get out of order the blood becomes impure and the heart is apt to be unfavorably affected. Cooper's New Discovery makes digestion easy and enables you to eat what you please without any bad after effects.

Bulldo Up the System

Cooper's New Discovery rids the body of all poisons, excessive acid and stomach gas and enables the stomach to perform its duty so perfectly that every particle of food aids in nourishing the body and giving tone and strength to the entire system. It brings the bloom of health to the cheeks of the anemic, sickly and run-down.

Tonic and Blood Purifier

Cooper's New Discovery is the best spring tonic and blood purifier on the market. It is purely a herbal preparation and is nature's own remedy. It makes rich, red, healthy blood, contains all the ingredients necessary to give vim, vigor and energy to the system.

EVERY ONE NEEDS A SPRING TONIC AND BLOOD PURIFIER. WHY NOT GET THE BEST? NOW IS THE TIME TO BEGIN USING IT.

AT ALL DRUGGISTS.

TAKEN FROM HOTEL TO BELLEVUE IN STRAITJACKET

Guest at Grand Union Suddenly Becomes Violent—Wife Calls Police.

Louis H. Arnold, thirty-one years old, an insurance clerk of No. 87 North street, Williamsville, Conn., was taken in a straitjacket from the Grand Union Hotel to Bellevue Hospital at 5 o'clock this morning for observation as to his sanity.

He and his wife, Mrs. Edith C. Arnold, arrived yesterday and took rooms at the hotel. Shortly before daylight Arnold jumped up in bed, awakened his wife and began to act in a peculiar manner. She tried to calm him, and failing, became alarmed, and telephoned Night Clerk Mulcahey.

The house detective, Jerry Sullivan, was sent to the room, but he could do nothing with Arnold, and called in Policeman Thalberg of the East Thirty-fifth street station.

The sight of Thalberg's uniform seemed to enrage Arnold, and several other policemen had to be summoned to put him in a straitjacket so he could be taken to an ambulance.

Mrs. Arnold was prostrated by the experience and refused to be seen later.

WON'T TURN T. R. TO WALL.

Over Taft's Strong Right Arm Still Hangs Picture of Colonel.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—While President Taft feels that Col. Roosevelt's action in entering the political arena in the role of a candidate is treachery, he has enough of the old affection for the Colonel to refrain from turning the picture of the former President in his office to the wall.

To the right of where the President sits in his private office, and in full view of every visitor who calls on him—and most of these visitors have something unkind to say for the former President—is a splendid painting of Colonel Roosevelt.

It has remained there through all the ups and downs of the Taft Administration, and, according to the President, will remain there until after the Chicago convention.
